

LAZY ROBIN (traditional Wales)

This is a fine little fiddle tune of a song. I love the smugly snug feel to it.

My house is tiny and warm and neat.
And warm and neat, and warm and neat.
My house is tiny and warm and neat.
The wind's at the door each morning.

Hi la ho, la hi la hi la ho
The wind's at the door each morning.

Now open the door a little way.
A little way, a little way.
Open the door a little way.
To look at the ocean's billows.

Hi la ho, la hi la hi la ho
The wind's at the door each morning.

So here I'll stay at my heart's content.
My heart's content, my heart's content.
So here I'll stay at my heart's content.
The wind's at the door each morning.

Hi la ho, la hi la hi la ho
The wind's at the door each morning.
Hi la ho, la hi la hi la ho
The wind's at the door each morning.

This traditional Welsh folksong is found in Vermont Sings sponsored by the Champlain 350th Anniversary Festival. I have made a few minor changes to the words.
